PREFACE.

In issuing the first number of the New England Official Directory and General Hand-Book, I desire to make a few explanatory remarks. The objects of the book are: —

I. To give, in as compact a form as possible, a complete directory, corrected at least once a year, of all the official and professional men of New England. By official men, I mean all who hold an office, by election or appointment, within the gift of the town, city, county, State, or United States. By professional men, I mean doctors, lawyers, clergymen, instructors, teachers, &c.

II. To give short, accurate biographical sketches of all official and professional men in New England.

I do not profess to have succeeded perfectly in either department of this twofold undertaking in this first edition. On the contrary, there is no expectation on my part of perfecting or completing the biographical side of the work short of two or three years. But efforts will be continued, and additional biographies inserted in each issue, until the list embraces sketches of all the official and professional men of New England. These will be re-published, with corrections and additions each year, and will be dropped only on the death of the parties represented. The extension of this list will considerably enlarge the work, but the price will remain permanently at four dollars and fifty cents. A smaller type may be used in the sketches hereafter.

In preparing the biographical sketches in this book, the managing editor has received valuable assistance from William E. Graves, Esq., a well-known Boston journalist, of large experience and extensive acquaintance throughout the New England States.

The general directory side of the work will also be enlarged, improved, and made more perfect from year to year. Several classes of officers have been omitted in this issue, as elections were taking place about the time it went to press, but these will be included in the next edition, However, upon the whole, it will be found as correct as it was possible to make it under the circumstances.

Before consulting the directory for any name, it will be absolutely necessary to refer to the Index, excepting only biographical sketches, which have been arranged alphabetically. All names have been arranged either alphabetically or by towns, as the case seemed to require.

The matter has been crowded in very closely, and may seem a little complex for a reference work on this account, but the reader's patience will bridge over this infelicity when it is remembered that all this is done to make the work as cheap as possible.

It should be borne in mind that no advertisements disfigure this work, — a departure that ought to meet with enthusiastic approval. If the usual amount of space were devoted to advertisements, the price of the book might be made one-half less, but, unless I greatly mistake, subscribers will prefer the book without advertisements.

The work will be issued with a new set of plates annually, as early in May as possible, and corrected editions will be issued quarterly.

CHARLES R. TUTTLE.

The Declaration being read, was agreed to, as follows:—

A DECLARATION

BY THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED.

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate, that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right them by abolishing the forms to which they have been accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation until his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, — a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into a compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise, the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the danger of invasion from without and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of land.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislature.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined, with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment, for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the powers of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever:

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction, of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress, in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time, of attempts made by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which demands our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war—in peace friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by the authority of the good people of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that as free and independent States, they have full power to levy war, to conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

The foregoing Declaration was, by order of Congress, engrossed, and signed by the following members:—

Constitution of the United States.

PREAMBLE.

WE, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION I.

All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SECTION II.

The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States, and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SECTION III.

The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class, at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class, at the expiration of the sixth year; so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote, unless they shall be equally divided.

The Senate shall choose their own officers, and also a President pro tempore in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

SECTION IV.

The times, places, and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SECTION V.

Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel the member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SECTION VI.

The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SECTION VII.

All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SECTION VIII.

The Congress shall have power—

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes;

To establish an uniform rule for naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

To establish post-offices and post roads;

To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;

To constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;

To exercise exclusive legislation, in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SECTION IX.

The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

No capitation, or other direct tax, shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State.

No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one State over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to, or from, one State, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign State.

SECTION X.

No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No State shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any State on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty on tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION I.

The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows: —

Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator or Representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the Vice-President. But if there still remains two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the Vice-President.*

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person, except a natural-born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President, neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President; and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation: —

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

SECTION II.

The President shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law; but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers, as they think proper, in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions that shall expire at the end of their next session.

* This clause of the Constitution has been amended. See twelfth article of the amendments.

SECTION III.

He shall, from time to time, give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on ordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and, in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SECTION IV.

The President, Vice-President, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION I.

The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SECTION II.

The judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States; between a State and citizens of another State; between citizens of different States; between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States; and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens, or subjects.

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all other cases before mentioned the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crime shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SECTION III.

Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION I.

Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SECTION II.

The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SECTION III.

New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State; nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States, or parts of States, without the consent of the legislatures of the States concerned as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

SECTION IV.

The United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States, under this Constitution, as under the Confederation.

This Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in Convention, by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our names.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The Constitution [Art. I., sec. 8, clause 17,] gave to Congress power to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district, not exceeding ten miles square, as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the Government of the United States.

The State of Maryland, by an act of her legislature, passed December 23, 1788, ceded to Congress a district of land on the east bank of the river Potomac, for a seat of government; and the State of Virginia, by an act of her legislature passed

December 3, 1789, also made a cession of land on the west bank of that river for the same purpose.

These cessions were accepted by Congress, and on the 16th of July, 1790, an act was passed establishing the temporary and permanent seat of the government of the United States.

Upon the lands thus ceded by the States of Maryland and Virginia, and accepted by Congress, a district of ten miles square was located; the lines and boundaries of which having been established by a proclamation of George Washington, President of the United States, issued on the 30th of March, 1791, Congress, by "An Act concerning the District of Columbia," approved February 17, 1801, assumed complete jurisdiction over the said District.

On the 3d of February, 1846, the legislature of Virginia passed an act accepting, by the State of Virginia, the county of Alexandria, in the District of Columbia, when the same shall be receded by the Congress of the United States; and on the 9th of July, 1846, an act of Congress passed to retrocede the county of Alexandria, in the District of Columbia, to the State of Virginia.

So that the portion of the District located upon the land ceded by Virginia, having been retroceded to that State, the District of Columbia has been, since the act of retrocession, embraced within the county of Washington, which includes the cities of Washington and Georgetown.

The municipal government of the District, since the retrocession of the county of Alexandria to the State of Virginia, has rested upon charters granted from time to time by Congress to the cities of Washington and Georgetown; these continued in force until the first day of June, 1871, when they were repealed by an act to provide a government for the District of Columbia, approved February 21, 1871. This act establishes for the District of Columbia a territorial form of government, consisting of a governor and certain other officers appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, and a delegate in Congress, and other municipal officers elected by the people.

The population in 1870, 131,700. Area, about 60 square miles.

In 1876 the territorial form of government was abolished, and the temporary government of the District provided for by commissioners.

Postal Rates.

DOMESTIC.

To any point within the United States, Canada, New Brunswick, or Nova Scotia:

Letters, or any matter so enclosed that it cannot be examined without injury to the wrapper, three cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof. Drop-letters, at offices having carriers, two cents per half ounce or fraction thereof; at offices without carriers, one cent. All packages containing written information are rated at letter postage. A letter packet must not weigh over four pounds. At least three cents must be paid on a letter packet; if more is due and not paid it will be collected on delivery. A letter will be returned to the writer free if a request to do so is placed on the outside of the envelope. Letters sent to the wrong place will be forwarded free at the request of the person to whom they are addressed. To register a letter packet, prepay it fully and add ten cents in stamps and your name and address; this will secure the return of a receipt for it. Manuscripts, except for books, are charged letter rates.

All letters remaining uncalled for thirty days in a post-office, after being advertised, are sent to the Dead Letter Office, with the following exceptions: 1. Letters bearing a request to return to the writer if not called for within a specified time, and letters bearing the name and address on the outside. Such letters are not advertised, and are not sent to the Dead Letter Office, but are returned direct to the writers. The use of "request" envelopes is recommended by the post-office authorities. 2. Mail matter addressed to initials will be sent to the Dead Letter Office, unless a street address or box number is given.

Postal-Cards.—There must be nothing whatever attached to a postal-card, except that the address may be pasted on, nor anything written or printed on the face except the address. Anything the sender desires may be written or printed on the back, provided it is not scurrilous or indecent. Postal-cards are not returned to the senders, nor advertised, nor sent to the Dead Letter Office. If not called for in sixty days, they are burned. Any printed card may be sent through the mails, if prepaid at the rate of one cent per ounce or fraction thereof, provided it contains no written matter except the address, which, with the stamp, should occupy one side. Postal-cards may be sent to Cuba, Porto Rico, and Jamaica (by "direct mail"), and to Newfoundland or any European country, by adding a one-cent postage stamp.

Printed Matter.—Pamphlets, magazines, books, posters, prospectuses, maps, occasional publications, transient newspapers, periodicals, handbills, sheet music (printed), proof-sheets corrected or uncorrected, and regular publications designed primarily for advertising purposes, or for free circulation at nominal rates,—one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

Merchandise and Circulars.—Chromos, engravings, photographs, prints, lithographs, stereoscopic views, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions, printed cards and blanks, card-board, photographic paper, plain and ornamental paper, letter envelopes and postal wrappers, book manuscript, unsealed circulars, patterns, minerals, and all other mailable merchandise,—one cent for each ounce or fraction thereof. Samples to Canada, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia, ten cents for eight ounces, which is the limit of weight. No other merchandise carried.

Drop Mail at Letter-Carrier Offices.—When deposited in a letter-carrier office for delivery by the office or its carriers: Weekly newspapers to transient parties, one cent per ounce or fraction thereof; other newspapers, one cent for each paper; periodicals not exceeding two ounces, one cent; exceeding two ounces, two cents; unsealed circulars, one cent each.

No postal packet may exceed four pounds in weight except books, documents printed by order of Congress, and documents from the Executive Departments of the government. All printed matter and merchandise must be fully prepaid. All except letter packets must be so wrapped that their contents can be thoroughly examined without cutting or injuring the wrapper or cord (a sealed envelope with notched corners is not considered a proper wrapper), and no signs or marks of any kind may be made on the wrapper or its contents except the address and the following:

Publishers may print the date of expiration of subscription on wrappers, and may enclose bills and receipts. Business cards may be printed or pasted (if printed) on wrappers. Samples may be numbered to correspond with similar marks in catalogues, invoices, or letters. Typographical errors in circulars, etc., may be corrected in writing, and an author may add to a proof-sheet new matter, if for the purpose of completing the article. A circular may contain a written address inside, but nothing else. A simple mark may be made to call attention to an article in printed matter. Any packet may have the name and address of the sender, with the word "From" prefixed on the wrapper, and the number and names of the articles may be attached.

Liquids, poisons, explosives, etc., —anything liable to injure the mail-bags, their contents, or employés of the department,—if discovered, will be thrown away.

Stamps cut from stamped envelopes or newspaper wrappers are not good, but if the whole envelope is presented, and the postmaster satisfied that it has not been used, it will be redeemed in stamps.

Printed matter, merchandise, and other third-class matter will not be forwarded from the office where it is addressed, unless the postage is paid anew, and a request to return such packages written thereon subjects the matter to letter postage.

To enclose any written matter in printed matter subjects the person mailing the same to a fine of five dollars unless the person receiving the package pays letter postage on the same. If articles upon which different rates of postage are charged are enclosed in the same package, postage must be paid at the highest rate.

Post-Office Money Order Fees are as follows: For orders not exceeding fifteen dollars, ten cents; from fifteen to thirty dollars, fifteen cents; from thirty to forty, twenty cents; from forty to fifty, twenty-five cents. Money orders are considered perfectly safe, and are sometimes more convenient than bank drafts, as the holder is not usually required to be identified. He must be able to say from whom and from where the order comes. The payee of an order may request payment to be made to another person, but only one such indorsement is allowed. If a money order is lost, a certificate must be obtained from both the issuing and paying postmaster that it has not been and will not be paid, when the Department at Washington will issue another on application. Money sent through the mail, even though the letter be registered, is at the risk of the sender, except where there is a special agreement to the contrary.

The mailing of any letter or circular concerning lotteries, gift-concerts, or similar enterprises offering prizes; and the mailing, or receiving through the mail, of any indecent publication, or any article designed for immoral use, or any notice giving information as to the procuring of such articles, are punishable by either fine or imprisonment, or by both.

FOREIGN.

To Mexico, direct by sea, letters ten cents, papers one cent for each two ounces or fraction, and one cent additional for each paper; land route, United States rates. To Brazil, British mail via Brindisi, letters ten cents, papers four cents.

To all European countries, Algeria, the Azores, Balearic Islands, Bermuda, Canary Islands, Costa Rica (direct mail via Aspinwall), Egypt, Faroe Islands, Fiji Islands, (direct via San Francisco), Gibraltar (British mail via England), Heligoland, Honduras Bay Islands (direct via New Orleans), Madeira Islands, Malta, and dependencies, Spanish settlements in Morocco, Newfoundland, New Grenada (direct mail), Panama (direct mail), San Domingo (direct steamer), Tangiers, Tripoli, Tunis, West Indies (direct mail), letters five cents, papers two cents.

To most Asiatic countries there are three routes; viz., San Francisco, via Southampton, and via Brindisi, and the rates for each are given below in the above order. Where but one rate is given, the prices are the same, or there is but one route. To Australia (except New South Wales and Queensland, to which by same mail the rates are, letters twelve cents, papers two cents), letters five, fifteen, and nineteen cents, papers two, four, and six cents; Hong Kong, Canton, Swatow, Amoy, and Foochow, letters ten cents, papers four cents; other parts of China, letters five, fifteen, and nineteen cents, papers two, four, and six cents; Japan, letters five, twenty-seven, and thirty-one cents, papers two, four, and six cents; India, letters ten cents, papers four cents; Siam, letters ten, twenty-seven, and thirty-one cents, papers two, six, and eight cents; Sandwich Islands, letters six cents, papers one cent for each two ounces.

The maximum weight of a foreign postal packet is, for patterns of merchandise, eight and three-fourths ounces; for other articles, except letters, two pounds and three ounces. Foreign postal packets must contain no article subject to customs duties, and no gold or silver coin.

Prepay all postage, not only because in some cases the package will not be forwarded unless prepaid, but because it is a shabby thing to require a correspondent to pay your postage. Write the address very plainly and fully. Be sure you give the name of the post-office, and unless the place is a large city, give the county. In writing a letter, always begin as you wish the answer directed, and sign your full name. If people only knew how much trouble and loss would be saved by following these directions, they would do it, we feel sure. Remember there are many post-offices of the same name, therefore always give the State. Put the stamp on the right-hand upper corner, and be sure that it adheres firmly.

The fees for money orders on Great Britain and Ireland and Switzerland are as follows: Not over ten dollars, twenty-five cents; from ten to twenty dollars, fifty cents; from twenty to thirty dollars, seventy-five cents; from thirty to forty dollars, one dollar; from forty to fifty dollars, one dollar and twenty-five cents. On Germany, not over five dollars, fifteen cents; all others as above.

Note.—These are the rates for letter packets not exceeding one-half ounce, and in most cases for each newspaper not weighing over four ounces; the same rate being added for each additional four ounces where the weight is more, and for each paper where it is less. Where there are several routes with different rates, the one paid for should be placed in the left-hand upper corner of the packet.

Board of Agriculture.

Moses Humphrey, Concord, Chairman; James O. Adams, Manchester, Secretary; Charles F. Kingsbury, Lyme; J. W. Sanborn, Lower Gilmanton; B. F. Hutchinson, Milford; John M. Weare. Seabrook; Hiram Parker, Lempster; Joshua B. Smith, Durham; Barton G. Towne, Lancaster; S. B. Shackford, Conway; George K. Harvey, Surry. Members are appointed for three years by the Executive. The Board is now in the eighth year of its existence. It holds an average of thirty meetings a year, and has visited more than one-half the towns in the State, and discussed

subjects of agricultural interest. The members, who have no compensation, have given nearly one thousand lectures, and the Secretary gives about one hundred a year. The Board has rooms in the State House, has collected a library of five hundred volumes, and has a museum containing many specimens of the rocks of the State, samples of grain, wool, wood, and nearly all the varieties of grasses grown in the State. A volume of agricultural matter, containing from five to six hundred pages, is published annually. These are exchanged for samples of farm products or other articles for the museum.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE PRISON, CONCORD.

John C. Pilsbury, Warden; Thos. A. Pilsbury, Deputy Warden; A. H. Crosby, M. D., and J. W. Barney, M. D., Physicians; and the Rev. Eleazer Smith, Chaplain; Mrs. L. S. Dickerson, Matron.

The number of convicts in prison, May 1, 1877, was 160,—149 males and 11 females. The earnings and income of the prison were, during the year, $30,261.77. The expenses for the same period were $15,821.28. The various officers of the prison appear to have done their duty in a satisfactory manner. The health of the prisoners has not been so good as usual. The Legislature of 1877 voted to build a new prison at an expense not to exceed $200,000 in all, including grading, fencing, etc., and the contracts for the same are partially made. The price received by the State for convict labor is 46⅓ cents per day, if the number of men exceeds 100, otherwise it is 50.

Statement. The Maine Industrial School for Girls is designed as a refuge for girls between the ages of seven and fifteen years, who by force of circumstances or associations are in manifest danger of becoming outcasts of society. It is not a place of punishment, to which its inmates are sent as criminals by criminal process—but a home for the friendless, neglected, and vagrant children of the State, where, under the genial influences of kind treatment, and physical and moral training, they may be won back to ways of virtue and respectability, and fitted for positions of honorable self-support, and lives of usefulness. The institution is a private corporation, composed of the original corporators and associate subscribers. By them its affairs are committed to a Board of Managers. The State is represented on the Board by the Governor, Secretary of State, and Superintendent of Common Schools. It has provided by statute law for the custody and education of wayward and exposed girls therein, and aids in their material support.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

OF THE

PRINCIPAL OFFICIAL AND PROFESSIONAL MEN

OF NEW ENGLAND.

We shall continue to add to the following biographical notes until the list embraces all the principal official and professional men of the New England States. The sketches are arranged in alphabetical order, and in order of editions, so that in looking for any particular sketch the reader will necessarily have to refer perhaps to each of the classes or editions. These sketches will be republished year after year, and will be dropped only on the death of parties represented. It may take some time before the list is complete, and considerably increase the size of the volume, but the price will not be increased.

There may be some people who will fail to see the value of these sketches, but their numbers will be few and only such as see value in nothing except for its present use. To appreciate the real value of these sketches, it is only necessary to suppose the list to be complete; that is, to embrace biographical notes of all official and professional men in New England, and that such a list has been published for the last fifty or one hundred years. This idea reveals the practicability of our scheme. Fifty years from the present time, if this list is made complete, and so continued and corrected each year, it will be invaluable, furnishing a magnificent biographical treasury of all New England. Such are our aims with regard to this department, and we invite and solicit the co-operation of all concerned, that we may be able to carry out the plan successfully.

We publish in this edition such sketches as we have been enabled to obtain in the short time which has elapsed since the work was begun. A few have been sent in which were too imperfect or incomplete for publication. However, the work is stereotyped and editions of each annual volume will be published quarterly, with additions in this department, and corrections in the directory matter preceding it. This will be continued until we have completed the list, and perpetually thereafter, with corrections and additions from time to time as deaths and additions in and to the list occur. We shall be glad to receive new sketches (and corrections of those in the work if found incorrect) from time to time.

ADAMS, COL. JOHN MILTON. Age, 58. Always a Democrat. Mr. Adams was born in Rumford, Oxford county, Me. His religious proclivities are Unitarian; he is by profession a journalist; and we regret to inform any fair readers who may scan this brief biography, that he is married. The ordinary school education of his day was afterwards continued at Bethel and Bridgton academies, Gorham Seminary, Me., and St. Hyacinthe College, Ca., where he acquired a thorough knowledge of the French language. For two years he studied law with Fessenden & Deblois, Portland; was admitted to the Cumberland bar and commenced practice in Portland, being four years in partnership with the late John A. Poor. In 1850-51, he visited the principal countries and capitals in Europe; afterwards edited the Eastern Argus, Portland, for John Appleton, while he was secretary of legation in London; next year formed copartnership with Nathan Clifford, and on his appointment to the U. S. Supreme Bench, in 1857, became the editor of the Argus; and, relinquishing the practice of law, he has had charge of the Argus—the oldest paper in Maine, established in 1803, and the leading democratic journal ever since; and has been its sole owner since 1866. Mr. Adams was on Gov. Hubbard's staff; supervisor of schools for Cumberland county, and reporter of decisions, preparing vols. 41 and 42, Maine Reports. He was a member of Maine House in 1877, and was reelected in 1878.

ADAMS, REV. JOHN WESLEY. Age, 46. Republican. Clergyman. The Rev. Mr. Adams was born in Townsend, Mass., May 23, 1832. He is a direct descendant of Henry Adams, who came to this country from England in 1640. He received a thorough academic education, and was for awhile a teacher of vocal music in Lawrence, Mass. His religious life began in Lowell, April 3, 1853. He was baptized the same year; licensed to preach Nov. 1856; joined the N. H. Conference of the M. E. Church, 1858; was ordained deacon, 1860; and elder in 1862. He was chaplain of the 2d Regt. N. H. Vols., from Dec. 5, 1863, to Dec. 25, 1865. At the close of the war he received a very flattering testimonial, written on parchment and signed by all the officers of his regiment; in which his character, services, and courage, received the highest commendation. They describe him as having in every battle "always been under fire; and frequently at the extreme front, assisting the wounded, comforting the dying, and giving to the dead a Christian burial." His ministerial service in the Conference has been at Rye, Derry, S. New Market, N. Salem, E. Canaan, Winchester, Gt. Falls and Tilton. He is at present presiding elder, Concord District, embracing forty-five churches. In 1866 he was elected delegate to General Conference M. E. Church, held in Baltimore, Md. Patriarch, S. of T., in N. H., 1850; has dedicated twenty-nine churches in New England; and is now president of the board of education, in the city of Concord, and secretary and agent, N. H. Prisoners' Aid Association. He received the honorary title of doctor of divinity in 1874. He was clerk in the store of Judge Noyes of Hyde Park, for two years; then several years in Manchester, N. H., and at the Amoskeag machine shop of that city. His next move was a year's scholarship at New Ipswich Academy; after that he again became clerk, this time in Boston. In 1855 he moved to Fitchburg, where he has been in business for himself most of the time since. He never before held public office, and his election to the legislature was unsought. When the 21st Massachusetts Regiment went into camp at Worcester, he went with it, and was detailed to enlist men. At his own expense he hired thirty men to enlist; and, when in January, 1865, there was a call for troops, and the selectmen of Fitchburg were unable to complete its quota, he went to Boston and procured forty men. By the way, our old school-mate, the Hon. William M. Evarts, knows how to write a much longer sentence than the above, and very much more involved; but even the hon. secretary of state of the United States may not know that the present style of the firm we are speaking of is J. B. Barnaby & Co., the Co. being Mr. H. B. Winship, a former salesman of much experience. Mr. Barnaby is now in the Providence city council, perhaps not permanently, though he has been elected annually since 1870. ton County, N. H., in Oct., 1853. He attended the high schools of Concord, N. H., and of Lowell, Mass., the academy at Canaan, and Kimball Union Academy at Meriden, N. H., and studied law with Geo. W. Murray, Esq., of Canaan, and in the office of Messrs. Pike & Blodgett, of Franklin, N. H. He was admitted to the bar in 1874, and went to California, where a year's experience was sufficient to satisfy him that "there's no place like home," so he returned to New Hampshire, opened an office, and is now fully established in practice at East Canaan, where his natural abilities and studious habits will, we trust, insure him a prosperous and successful future. His father, by occupation a trader, was for many years treasurer of Grafton County. P. O., East Canaan, Grafton County, N. H.

He was elected to the city council of Holyoke in 1877, and is at present a member of that board.

Casey, P. H. Age, 34. Lawyer. It is the proud boast of Mr. Casey that he is a native of the Emerald Isle, where he was born in the year 1844. Whether he ever saw the Lakes of Killarney, or listened to the bells of Shandon, we have no means of knowing; but he came to the United States in 1846, and availed himself of the privileges of our public schools, commenced the study of law in 1870, and was admitted to practice at the Hampden County (Mass.) bar, in Nov., 1877. Mr. Casey was a member of the Mass. state detective force, for two years, and was several years first vice-president of the Massachusetts Catholic Total Abstinence Union. He is now, and has been for many years past, an active member of the several temperance organizations in Holyoke, Mass., and its vicinity.

He was educated at Phillips Academy, Exeter, and at Harvard College, graduating in the class of 1854. He read law with Henry F. French, Esq., in Exeter, and afterwards with Messrs. Stickney and Tuck. Immediately after his admission to the bar, he was appointed clerk of the supreme judicial court of common pleas, in 1856; and since then has continued clerk of the circuit court, and of the superior court of judicature. He is now clerk of the superior court for the county of Rockingham, N. H., and is a member of the masonic fraternity, holding the office of H. Cornell, John. Age, 47. Republican. Wood and Coal. Mr. Cornell is a native of Wilmington, Mass., and was born in that town Sept. 6, 1830; but from youth he has been a citizen of Andover, and identified with its business interests. He was educated at Phillips Academy, and after entering upon his majority was several years in the livery business. For the last twenty years he has been established in the wood and coal traffic; and till now has never held office, his present political honor being that of representative of the 14th Essex district, Andover and North Andover, to the Massachusetts legislature of 1878.

She was educated in the public schools and at Pierce Academy, Middleborough; taught in the public schools of Halifax, Plympton and Middleborough, and graduated at the Woman's Medical College of the New York Infirmary, in 1874. [The plan of instruction at this college is similar to that recently adopted at Harvard; viz., a graded course of four years, each year consisting of two sessions, one of six months and the other of three months, and examinations required at the close of every year. The board of examiners consist of Dr. Willard Parker, surgery; Dr. Isaac E. Taylor, in obstetrics; Dr. Austin Flint, in principles and practice of medicine; Dr. Stephen Smith, in anatomy; Dr. B. W. McCready, in materia medica; Dr. A. L. Loomis, in physiology; Prof. C. F. Chandler, in chemistry, and Dr. E. H. H., June, 1820, and went, with his parents, a year later, to Holliston, Mass., where, in the public and private schools of the town, he received his education. He was for many years engaged in mercantile pursuits in Holliston and Boston, Mass., and in 1854 represented his town in the State legislature. He removed to the city of Worcester in 1857, to accept the position of secretary and manager of the People's Fire Insurance Company, which office he retained till 1872. He is now general manager of the New England Department of the Lancashire Insurance Company of Manchester, Eng.; capital, ten millions; and also a local agent of several of the leading American and foreign insurance companies. He has been a director of the Central National Bank since 1863, and trustee of the Worcester People's Savings Bank, since 1865; also a director in the State Mutual Life Insurance Company. Mr. Currier has also represented his ward in the city government. P. O., Worcester, Mass.

Mr. Crook is a member of the masonic order, also of the Knights of Pythias; and is now president of the Springfield Reform Club.

CRAFTS, HON. R. P. Age, 55. Democrat. Merchant. Mr. Crafts is a native of South Deerfield, Mass., and was born Sept. 17, 1822. He moved, when quite young, with the family, to Holyoke, Mass., where he attended school, and where the scenes and pursuits, common to any quiet country village, were the chief educating forces of his life. He was in business about thirty years, and in the fall of 1872 was sent as representative to the State legislature. In 1877 he was elected mayor of the city of Holyoke. He built the Bemis paper mill in 1864, and as agent and treasurer, had the entire charge of its interests till 1870. While in the legislature he procured a charter for the Holyoke Mechanics' Savings Bank, of which institution he is now vice-president.

COMBS, SIMON E. Age, 52. Mr. Combs is a native of Holden, Mass., and was born in the year 1826. He was probably not a great deal better, nor very much worse, than any other of the good boys who were his schoolmates in their native town; but when they left school and went to learn a trade, he preferred that of a blacksmith, and he did learn it well, and followed it for twenty-four years. He lived in New York city for a year, and for some time in Attleborough, Mass., but went to Worcester, Mass., in 1848, and worked at his trade till 1872, when, having previously filled almost every inferior office in the fire department, he was elected chief-engineer, and now holds that position. He was a member of the board of engineers seven years before he was elected chief, and was a member of the city council from ward 1, in 1870–71. Through his efforts the Worcester fire department has been greatly improved. Beds and bath-rooms are now in every house, and a number of influential and leading citizens occupy positions of trust and offices in connection with that department of the city government.

CILLEY, PROF. BRADBURY L. Age, 39. Prof. Cilley is a native of Nottingham, N. H., where he was born, Sept. 6, 1838. Y., remaining there a year only, being elected at that time to the professorship of ancient languages in Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H., which chair he has since creditably and satisfactorily filled.

CONE, C. B. Age, 37. Instructor in Physical Culture. Mr. Cone, whose specialty in the Springfield (Mass.) Collegiate Institute is above noted, was born in Dalton, Mass., in the year 1841. He entered the United States service during the war, in 1862, as a private in the 10th Mass. infantry, and becoming disabled, he was honorably discharged in December, 1863; and the following year began studying medicine in connection with the peculiar system of physical culture adopted by the late Dr. Windship of Boston. Under his mode of treatment and instruction Mr. Cone continued three years, and was afterwards associated with Dr. Windship, practising his system of treatment as a profession in different sections of the State of Massachusetts. The death of Dr. W. is now generally well-known; but his graduated system of physical culture, as applied and illustrated by Dr. Cone, was opened as a special department of the Springfield Institute, Sept. 11, 1876. It is not the aim of the institution to develop a few masculine prodigies, whose mission may be to astonish people by feats of strength and agility, but to call into daily action every part of the muscular system to such an extent as to insure its healthy condition. Of course it is much better to assist nature in resuming her normal functions and making health possible, than to throw away money upon patent medicines and quack doctors. Our impression is that the Windship system is about as good as any yet invented, and that Prof. Cone is one of its very best exponents.

CARLETON, CHARLES G., M. D. Age, 33. Physician and Surgeon. Dr. Charles G., son of Samuel Carleton, of Haverhill, Mass., was born Nov. 1, 1844. His preference for the profession of medicine was developed early in life, and his studies all aimed in that direction. After attending lectures, and pursuing the regular routine of study at Harvard Medical School, he graduated from that college in the class of 1867, entering upon the practice of medicine the same year in the city of Lawrence, Mass., where he is now attending to a rapidly increasing business. He holds the office of censor in the Essex North District Medical Society. P. O., Lawrence, Mass.

During the war he was hospital steward in the 1st Vermont Regiment, and after graduating in 1863 surgeon in the navy. He was attached to the East Gulf and West India squadrons as surgeon on the men-of-war Honduras and Neptune. Prior to this he was detailed to the Marine Hospital at Washington, D. C. While in sea-service he was often ordered to accompany detachments sent to the coast of Florida, where he participated in several engagements. After leaving the service in the autumn of 1865 he established himself in Lawrence, Mass., where he is now engaged in the practice of his profession.

CROSBY, JOHN W. Age, 41. Postmaster, etc. Mr. Crosby, the present postmaster of Milford, N. H., is a native of Massachusetts, and was born in the city of Lowell, but received a good portion of his education in the schools of Nashua, N. H. He learned the printer's trade, and spent several years on the Plains during the Mormon rebellion. He was an officer of the 5th New Hampshire Volunteers during the civil war, and lost his right arm at Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 13, 1862. Yet he is not without office,—being past grand and chief patriarch of the Odd Fellows; past dictator of the Knights of Honor; past commander of the G. A. R.; express agent and telegraph manager Western Union Telegraph; also justice of the peace; lieut.-col. 1st New Hampshire militia; and now, as for ten years past, postmaster of Hillsborough County, N. Dr. Coburn is an active member of the Merrimac Valley Dental Association, and was elected secretary of the Alumni Association of the Boston Dental College for 1877, and re-elected for 1878. P. He is the son of Bela Parsons and Cynthia (Carr) Clapp; the seventh in descent from Roger Clapp, who came to New England from old England in 1630, and was afterwards captain of the Governor's Castle. He attended medical lectures at Harvard College and at Hanover, N. H., and in 1836 received his diploma from Dartmouth, beginning practice the same year in Chesterfield, Mass., afterwards removing, in 1841, to Pawtucket, R. I., where he is still engaged in the active duties of his profession. In 1870 he received the honorary degree of A. M. from Brown University. At one time he held a commission as surgeon from Gov. Everett of Massachusetts, and at different periods has filled almost every possible medical office, honorary or otherwise; has been president of Pawtucket Dispensary since its organization in 1865; is physi-

He commenced business September, 1825, in Amherst, Mass., with J. S. Adams, under the firm name of Carter & Adams, booksellers, printers and binders. In December, 1826, he started the first newspaper in Amherst, the "New England Inquirer," and the original of the present "Amherst Record." The various offices he has held during the last fifty years include almost every position ever heard or thought of in connection with parish and town affairs, not excepting lyceums, Sunday schools, banks, revenue offices and temperance organizations. He was nine years postmaster, thirty-one years town clerk and town treasurer, and forty-eight years teacher, librarian and superintendent of a Sunday school, and is now teaching in the west parish. Of course he is a trustee and secretary of the board of trustees of Amherst Academy, and has more than once represented his town in the general court. P. O., Amherst, Mass.

COOK REV. JOSEPH. Age, 40. Lecturer. The Rev. Joseph Cook, of the famous Monday lectureship, by some regarded as the concentration of all culture,— and Boston culture at that,— was born at Ticonderoga, N. Y., Jan. 26, 1838. Graduating from Phillips Academy in 1857, he entered Yale College in 1858, remaining there two years. Interrupted in his studies three years by illness, he afterwards entered Harvard University, in 1863, leaving its classic shades with a diploma, in 1865. The same year he entered Andover Theological Seminary, graduating thence in 1868. He was afterwords a fourth year at Andover, under Prof. Park; then "spoke" from place to place in New England, until 1870, and was a year acting pastor of the First Congregational Church, in Lynn, Mass. In September, 1871, he went to Europe; travelled in England, Scotland, France and Germany, and studied at Halle, Berlin and Heidelberg universities. In January, 1873, he went to Italy, and passed the winter chiefly at Florence, Rome, and Naples. In the spring and summer of 1873 he was in Egypt, Syria, and Greece. He returned to Vienna, through Turkey, and was again a considerable period in England, reaching the United States in November, the same year. He commenced to lecture in Boston, January, 1874, and in the autumn of 1875 the Boston Monday noon lectures were commenced in the Meionaon. In connection with these he was also lecturing at Mt. Holyoke Female Seminary, Amherst College, Yale, and theological seminaries elsewhere in New England. In October, 1876, the size of the audiences crowded out the Monday lectures into Park Street Church, and from there into Tremont Temple. The lectures were, and are at present, reported in full in the "Boston Daily Advertiser," the "New York Independent," the "Cincinnati Gazette," and other prominent papers. Large editions have been published in London; Messrs. Houghton, Osgood & Co. of Boston and New York, have issued three volumes under the titles of "Biology," "Transcendentalism" and "Orthodoxy." Other courses of lectures have been given on "Conscience," "Heredity" and "Marriage." The work on Biology has passed through fourteen editions; that on Transcendentalism is in its tenth edition. The objective point of Mr. Cook's lecturing is to discuss the relations of Religion and Science. Some five hundred educated and professional men are among the audiences, which, for two years, have been so large as often to overflow Tremont Temple on the busiest hour and day of the week. Mr. Cook lectures in Boston about one-third of the year, makes a lecturing tour for another third, and lives at Lake George and engages in authorship the remaining portion of the year. No one can safely say of him, what is so often said of ordinary men, "his early education was neglected."

CLARK, PETER HOBART. Age, 61. Republican. Mr. Clark, or rather, Peter Hobart Clark, a name well-known to almost every traveller in New Hampshire, was born in the town of New Ipswich, Hillsborough County, N. H., Dec. 11, 1816. When quite a lad he was a clerk in Concord, Lowell, and Boston, Mass., and in youth had the reputation of being an expert performer on various musical instruments. He had paid considerable attention to the study of music; was really an accomplished musician, and taught vocal and instrumental music for many years with success. His services were sought for on great public occasions in all the country round. Arbuckle had not then soared above the horizon of popular fame, nor had Gilmore even dreamed of peace jubilees and Paris expositions; but the name of Hobart Clark was whispered with bated breath, in connection with Bartlett's bugle in the old "Brigade;" with Ned Kendall's solo in "Wood Up," and with Willis' dashing leadership of the old West Point band. In one thing he could excel them all. He could "keep a hotel." He knew it, and — he did it. So he relinquished his profession, purchased the hotel in New Ipswich, now known in travellers' guide-books as "Clark's Hotel," and managed it, as it should be, thirteen years, being successful pecuniarily, and otherwise, as his many guests and summer boarders can testify. Mr. Clark has held various town offices. He had previously been a justice of the peace, and for ten years deputy sheriff for Hillsborough County; and in 1878, having sold his interest in the hotel, he was chosen to represent his town in the State legislature. Having done well, he has now retired from hotel-keeping. He is in good health, having scarcely ever seen a sick day; and he never in his life was under the care of a physician. As already stated, Mr. Clark is, in politics, a republican; his religion is to "owe no man anything," and to "do unto others as you would that others should do unto you."

CONEY, HERBERT M. Age, 34. Republican. Lawyer. Mr. Coney was born in the town of Ware, Hampshire County, Mass., on the 18th of March, 1844. He is a member of the Hampden County bar, and went to Springfield, Mass., in 1875, where he now has an office in the Five Cent Savings Bank Block.

COOK, HON. LYMAN ARNOLD. Age, 72. Republican. Manufacturer. Mr. Cook was born in Cumberland, R. I., Dec. 15, 1805. He never went to college; never studied law, medicine, nor theology; yet, at an age when most men are retired, we find him to-day the presiding head of a sewing-machine company, a horse-nail manufacturing company, the great Woonsocket Rubber Company, the Pawtucket Hair-cloth Company, president of the Woonsocket National Bank, and in several other branches of business. He commenced building machinery in 1828 and continued in same thirty-five years. Since that time he has been engaged in manufacturing rubber goods, hair-cloth, feltings, &c. He has been a member of the house of representatives and was four years in the State senate. P. O., Woonsocket, R. I.

Mr. Clark is now a Methodist preacher stationed by the New England Conference at Maplewood, Mass.

COOK, HORACE. Age, 56. Republican. Manufacturer. Mr. Cook was born in Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 16, 1821; received a common-school education and was brought up on a farm till twenty-one years of age. Twenty-one seems to have been his lucky number. He was born in '21, worked on a farm till twenty-one, and was twenty-one years in one particular business in Woonsocket. Ten years ago he commenced to manufacture worsted braids, and has been in the business ever since. He has been on the board of assessors for the last nine years, a commissioner of the sinking fund and a member of the legislature, and now holds various offices, such as director Woonsocket Gas Company, trustee of the People's Savings Bank, and director of the First National Bank. After leaving school he worked at farming till the age of twenty-one, when he began manufacturing, continuing in the same till the present time. He went to Lowell in 1856, and to Manchester, England, in 1869, afterwards selling out his business and returning to Lowell, where, in October, 1877, he formed a partnership under the style of the "Lowell Elastic Web Company," which has met with very good success. To fill the vacancy caused by the death of Councilman Spaulding, of Lowell, he was elected in his place, and re-elected in 1877, a position which he now holds. P. O., Lowell, Mass.

On returning to Haverhill, in 1872, he was again appointed deputy sheriff. In early life he was a mechanic, but, possessing much natural adaptation for the discharge of official duties connected with the offices he has occupied, he naturally gravitated to the position he has filled through a succession of years.

DIXON, NATHAN F., Jr., Esq. Age, 31. Republican. Mr. Dixon is a native of Westerly, R. I., and was born there in the year 1847. In that year he was chosen town clerk, a position which he still holds, having faithfully discharged its duties for many years. His residence is in Chicopee village.

DEDERICK, J. H. The superintendent of the Burbank Manufacturing Company. Mr. J. H. Dederick, is without doubt a gentleman of much ability, because manufacturing companies are in the habit of selecting their supervisors from just that particular class. We could safely say as much, ignoring his superior business tact and long period of service. The company was established in 1855, but it was twenty years later before it was incorporated as a stock company at Springfield, Mass., in 1875, and managed by a board of directors. It may interest feminine fingers, as well as practical tailors, to know that tons of thimbles are merely the matter of a month's manufacture at this establishment, to say nothing of spectacles suited to all sights and sizes in the community. For further information see the model superintendent, Mr. J. H. Dederick.

By improving his time, however, in studying at home, he soon became qualified to teach, and afterwards devoted years of his life to that calling. He was early made superintending school committee, and was for many years elected to that office. He served two terms as representative to the State legislature. Mr. Eastman is one of the first living settlers of the town of North Haverhill, N. H., and is the son of James Eastman, one of the earliest settlers of Bath, N. H., who died in 1853 at the age of one hundred years. When seventy-two years of age, the subject of this sketch began to exercise his eyesight in fine penmanship, and was soon able to write the Lord's Prayer with a common steel pen, — "Spencerian, No. 12," — and without the aid of glasses, within the compass of one-fourteenth of an inch, having sent such a piece to the centennial. Mr. Eastman is a well-informed, hale, and hearty gentleman, and attributes the preservation of sight and nerve, as well as health, to his total abstinence principles, — having signed the first temperance pledge Rev. Dr. Beecher, father of Henry Ward Beecher, presented to the people of his section in 1824. Mr. Eastman has kept that pledge to the present time. P. O., North Haverhill, N. H.

He is not a believed in prohibition, nor in woman suffrage, nor in the legislature putting the people's money into railroads or any other private corporations! But he does think the State should furnish a common-school education to every child within its borders, and no more. Neither has he much faith in fancy prisons and fancy lunatic asylums, — for all of which, see his record in 1870, on Hartford & Erie, and 1874–75, on the new prison at Concord, Mass., and a "New Prison for Women"! He was then appointed agent of the Tremont Land Company of the town of Lake in the neighborhood of Chicago, Ill., serving six years. While in that position he inaugurated a system of under-draining which greatly improved the neighboring flats for agricultural purposes; and, at a subsequent State fair, he received eighteen out of twenty premiums for crops raised under this system of land improvement. The effect was to largely enhance the value of land in that locality, and about that time he was elected supervisor of the town of Lake, Cook County, by a voting population of four hundred and fifty. From there he removed to Lawrence, Mass., in 1864, purchased seventy acres of land on the heights overlooking that city. Here he applied the agricultural skill which has since resulted in great improvement to the land and to its consequent advance in value. In agriculture, Mr. Emery has been a success. FELLOWS, SCOTT. Age, 32. Republican. Deputy-sheriff and Jailor. Mr. Fellows is a native of New Hampshire, which Daniel Webster, or somebody else, once said was "a very good State to emigrate from," and was born in the town of Bristol in 1846. He is represented as a genial gentleman, and a public-spirited citizen; with no lack of efficiency, integrity, and ability. These qualities, it would seem, should be sufficient to make any man's fortune, political, pecuniary, or otherwise; and our friend Fellows seems to be on the highway to success. He is an energetic worker in the republican party, and is also a member of the republican state central committee. P. O., Haverhill, Grafton County, N. H.

FAIRBROTHER, HON. LEWIS. Age, 65. Manufacturer. The Hon. Mr. Fairbrother is a native of Rhode Island, and was born in the town of Pawtucket, in that State, Aug. 12, 1812. He commenced the business of tanning and manufacturing leather in 1834, and is the father, so to speak, of the Laer and Picker leather and leather-belting interests now in Pawtucket. Mr. Fairbrother represented Pawtucket, R. I., in the State General Assembly eight years; the first two in the house, and the following six in the senate. He was chairman of the committee on corporations in both houses throughout his political career. He was agent of the Providence and Pawtucket Turnpike many years, and procured the appropriation from the State, in 1858, for building the stone bridge over Pawtucket Falls; was chairman of the commission for erecting the same, and is the sole survivor of said commission. Mr. Fairbrother secured the charter for the State Bank in 1855, and was president during its existence, as well as for several years after it became a national institution; and the above-named banks, under Mr. Fairbrother's unbroken presidency of twenty years, were eminently prosperous.

FITZGERALD, AI. Age, 49. Democrat. Sash, door, and blind manufacturer. Mr. Fitzgerald is a native of Littleton, N. H., and was born there Jan. 22, 1829. He is what we call a self-made man, having been at a very early age thrown upon the world to struggle for himself. He was economical, honest, and temperate; had a small opinion of Congressman Banks' "eight hours a day," Charlestown navy-yard arrangement; i. e., if he thought any thing at all about it! but worked hard every day from twelve to seventeen hours, succeeded in acquiring a first-class business education; and, best of all, in accumulating a fortune sufficient to place him in comfortable circumstances for the rest of his life. Mr. Fitzgerald was elected to represent his town in the State legislature in 1877, and re-elected in 1878 by an increased majority. He is a charitable and public-spirited citizen, and makes an honest and very efficient public official. P. O., Littleton, Grafton County, N. H.

GREELEY, REV. STEPHEN S. N. Age, 65. Congregational clergyman. Born in Gilmanton, N. H., Jan. 23, 1813; graduated at Dartmouth College, 1835; studied theology at Andover; ordained in his native town, Jan. 31, 1839; married Sarah B. Curtis, daughter of Rev. Jonathan Curtis of Pittsfield, N. H., Sept. 29, 1840; 1842, settled at New Market, remaining five years; settled at Grand Rapids, Mich., six years. His war record as the fearless chaplain of that well-known fighting 6th Michigan Cavalry Brigade is remarkable, and can barely be sketched. In camp and field he stuck (sic) to his men in all their perils. The brigade was never separated from first taking the field; and under such generals as Kilpatrick and Custer they always moved in the thickest of the fight, knowing neither "fail" nor "fear" in the most memorable battles on the soil of Virginia; and they were on the field when Lee surrendered at Appomattox. On their march from the field of victory to the grand review in Washington, the sad intelligence reached the camps of the assassination of President Lincoln; and near Petersburg our chaplain pronounced the oration. The regiment was discharged in Jackson; before scattering to their homes, on the Sabbath, in presence of Gov. Blair and many citizens, the chaplain held his last religious service with his brave "fighting parish." He had been with them three years. They had left hosts of comrades in Southern graves, mown down in battle or perished by disease; and, at the muster out, none were left of the original staff but the surgeon and the chaplain! He was afterwards settled over the Congregational Church in Oswego eight years, when he broke down in health and was obliged to retire from all public labor. P. O., Pittsfield, or Gilmanton, N. H.

H., at Webster United States General Hospital, remaining there till June, 1865, when he was assigned to duty as United States pension surgeon, which position he still holds. Dr. Goodwin has practised his profession in Manchester since 1865, and has been a member of the board of health in that city for many years. He graduated from Harvard as B. S. After reaching manhood, he passed twenty-three years of his life as an accountant in a Boston counting-house. Few young men of the present day serve such an apprenticeship; and fewer still go back to the farm, as he did, in his native town, where he followed the business for twenty years more. He was an abolitionist and free-soiler from the start; but at present, is independent of party restraint. HASKELL, WILLIAM H. Age, 56. Republican. Manufacturer of Iron Work. A great many great and good men have been born in the town of Cumberland, R. I.; but the only person who particularly strikes us at the present time as having been born Sept. 1, 1821, is Mr. Wm. H. Haskell. The common schools were always good in that town; and, of course, he attended them and obtained a good education. He went to learn the machinist's trade in 1840, and he must have learned it well; else the good people of Cumberland would never have elected him as a member of the board of water commissioners to attend to the construction of the works! He continued in his former business for many years; but in 1857 sold out and commenced the manufacture of bolts and screws for coaches, and has continued successfully in the same ever since. Mr. Haskell has also been a member of the town council of Pawtucket, R. I., for five years.

On his return to Worcester in 1867, he was engaged as a clerk in a West India goods store, where he remained till 1858, when he commenced for himself, and has succeeded in building up a business in which he continues at the present time, to his own and the public benefit. In Nov., 1875, he was chosen to represent ward 3 in the city council. He has held the position ever since, and was re-elected for a term of two years in Nov., 1877. P. O., Worcester, Mass.

He was also a graduate from the University of Michigan Law School, at Ann Arbor, in the class of 1867. He was commissioned sergeant of the 11th Regt. Maine Vols., in which he enlisted, Oct., 1861, and was subsequently promoted 2d lieut. of Co. I, then 1st lieut., and afterwards adjutant of the regiment. He was in several of the battles of the peninsular campaign under McClellan, among them that of Fair Oaks and the seven days battles. He resigned on account of disability, was for a short time in the practice of law in Holyoke, Mass., and subsequently in Cherryfield, Me., where he was superintendent of schools and deputy-collector of customs; and in 1870 represented that town in the Maine legislature. He was elected superintendent of schools in Lawrence, Mass., on the 1st of Jan., 1877, and re-elected in 1878.

HALL, WILLIAM T. Age, 36. Attorney-at-law. Mr. Hall was born in Bowdoinham, Me., August 22, 1841. He was the eleventh child in a family of twelve children; his parents, Joseph and Mary Hall, were strong, vigorous people, and the large family were kept well at work from early life on the large farm where they lived. When William was quite young his father opened a country store; and, William showing some tact for business, was kept in the store most of the time until fifteen years of age. His spare time was employed in study, and he was considered to be very well educated for a country boy. At that time he went away from home to school at different academies, and taught schools in different places, and began the study of the law. After reading law a number of years, and teaching schools a portion of the time, he was admitted to the bar in Sagadahoc County, Aug. 18, 1863. He immediately opened an office at Richmond, in the same county, and at once secured a good law-practice. He served on the school committee three years; was admitted to the bar of the United States circuit court, Sept. 24, 1873; was elected county attorney for Sagadahoc County; began its duties Jan. 1, 1874; and now holds that office, having been re-elected for a second term. He has been director in the First National Bank of Richmond some ten or more years, and has been vice-president of the Richmond Savings Bank since its incorporation, in 1871. He has never had a day that he has not been at work since his boyhood. P. O., Richmond, Me.

HILL, EDWIN P. Republican. Journalist. Edwin P. Hill is a native of West Nottingham, N. H., now Hudson, a descendant from west of England ancestry on the male side and the Huguenots on other, who were patriots in the Revolution. He was educated in the common school, and at the Nashua Academy. From farm life, at the age of fourteen, he entered mercantile business as a merchant's clerk. In 1840 he was connected with the postal service at Nashua, N. H., under President Harrison, and subsequently under acting President Tyler. In June, 1844, he again entered mercantile life, first as a dealer in dry-goods at Nashua, and afterwards, about 1851, as a clothier in Haverhill, Mass., continuing till 1861, when he was appointed postmaster by President Lincoln and re-appointed by President Johnson in 1865, holding the office under the two appointments eight years. After his appointment by Johnson, and his confirmation by the senate, his commission was held back with those of many others, preparatory to the great political turn contemplated when the famous "swing round the circle" was made. He had the singular experience of having two appointments made over him by Johnson, but in neither instance did he lose possession of his office, finally receiving his original commission just as it was officially prepared for him, and filed away for political capital in the "new departure," with the endorsement, "hold up." He was connected with the press for many years before the war, during its continuance, and since its close. In the Fremont and Lincoln campaigns he was a leading writer for the Haverhill "Gazette," early giving to that journal a pronounced free-soil and republican tone, and was at the same time and afterwards, for many years, upon the corresponding staff of the Boston "Traveller," as the local representative of that journal when the transmission of news was almost exclusively through letters, his communications appearing over the signature of "Noggs." From 1861 to 1869 he was the "*" contributor to the Haverhill tri-weekly "Publisher," also taking leading part in its editorial work. He has since been a portion of the time connected with it as correspondent and city editor. He has, also, for several years been the local representative in Haverhill of the Boston daily and Sunday "Herald," for special and general news. P. O., Haverhill, Mass.

He was educated at Derby Academy in that town; and in 1840 was connected with a boot and shoe manufactory in Weymouth, — to this day a noted shoe town. He subsequently became a partner in a shoe manufacturing firm under the name and style of Hodges, Randall & Co., as a wholesale boot and shoe warehouse in Boston. The firm was afterwards changed to J. Vaughn & Hersey, and still later to S. Q. Hersey & Co., from which, as well as from active mercantile business, Mr. Hersey retired in 1871. He soon became proprietor of the Exchange Hotel in Methuen, Mass., which he refitted and furnished in fine style, and which has since been kept by him for the accommodation of the travelling public. Its spacious parlors and generally commodious appointments supply one of the most enjoyable retreats from bustling life to be found in Eastern Massachusetts,—being in near proximity to the great manufacturing city of Lawrence and approachable by rail from every quarter. Whoever is fortunate enough to find himself under the roof of the Exchange is sure of being surrounded by quietude and solid comfort! P. O., Methuen, Mass.

He was enrolled as private in the 10th regiment, Massachusetts infantry; and, before promotion could reach him, received a wound which incapacitated him for further service, and he was accordingly honorably discharged. Soon after his return home he removed to Holyoke Mass., and engaged in business till September, 1876, when he was elected to the office of city messenger. He still holds that position; is, of course, a member of the G. A. R., and of the Knights of Honor. P. O., Holyoke, Mass.

The following year he had charge of St. Luke's Church, New York City, and in October was ordained priest by Bishop Brownell at Hartford, Ct., and took charge of St. Paul's Church, Frederikstadt, Santa Cruz, W. I., till March, 1846, when he became rector of St. John's, Christianstadt in that beautiful island. Here he labored very successfully thirteen years, — found one hundred and sixty communicants and left fifteen hundred. Driven north by the war, he had temporary charge of Trinity Church, Chicago, and then of Grace Church, Brooklyn Heights, N. senger, and must have been faithful and attentive to his duties or the company never would have retained his services, as they did, for fourteen years. Mr. Haskins is now agent for the United States and Canada Express Company, and is also western ticket agent for the Grand Trunk Railroad,—which office he occupies in connection with his express agency. IRISH, REV. JAMES, D. D. Age, 66. The Rev. Mr. Irish was born in North Stonington, Conn. His early years were spent on the farm, and at the age of seven he took his place regularly with the men in the field. A country school kept during the winter, furnished the only educational opportunities of his early years. But he was enthusiastic, and progressed rapidly in his studies; and at the age of seventeen he was engaged as teacher of a public school. In this way he passed his winters for several years, returning to the farm in spring. At the age of twenty-two he entered Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass. He economized both time and money; studying at night, and working at odd jobs in the daytime, and thus paid his own way, and entered college at Schenectady, in 1836, being then in his twenty-fifth year. He had in the meantime taught a year in New Jersey; and afterwards became principal of a teachers' institute, where he taught twelve years, preaching in neighboring churches on the Sabbath. Since 1865 Mr. Irish has devoted his energies mostly to the ministry. In 1873 he was elected by the town of Hopkinton a member of its school committee. At its first meeting the committee chose him chairman, which office he has continued to hold till the present time. Dr. Irish is a man solidly built, weighing a little more than two hundred pounds. Since 1827 he has resided in Haverhill, Mass., where, till 1865, he was principally engaged in shoe manufacturing, and extensively known to the trade as one of the leading men in that business in Haverhill. Mr. Ingalls is the inventor of much valuable machinery; and all practical machines for cutting sole leather contain the essential features of his inventions. He was the inventor of the burnishing machine which embodied the principle used in Tapley's burnisher. In 1847 he invented the shoe-tree, of which thousands are now used, but no patent was ever secured for it. He was one of the first to introduce machinery and power for the manufacture of shoes in Haverhill, about the year 1860; and also took the lead in establishing the factory-system of shoe-manufacturing in that city. Mr. Ingalls was for several years connected with a wholesale shoe-house in Louisville, Ky., of which his son was the local manager. He served in the office of assessor of the city of Haverhill, from 1870 to 1873, and was again elected in 1877 for a term of years. In politics Mr. Ingalls now inclines to the democratic side, and is a strong prohibitory man. In North Andover, where he retains his home, he is actively interested in public affairs and in the political interests of the party with which he is affiliated, as might be inferred from the fact that he is now chairman of the republican town committee in that place. Three years ago he failed of an election to the general court, from old ward five, by six votes; but in 1876 he was elected representative, from ward twelve, receiving nearly nine hundred more votes than the republican candidate. In 1877 he was re-elected, receiving the largest vote cast in the 12th Suffolk district. P. O., Bangor, Me.

JOHNSON, ALFRED. Lifting Cure Establishment, Springfield, Mass. Mr. Johnson maintains that cumulative exercise, sometimes called the lifting cure, while improving the health, will double the actual strength in three months; that it occupies only ten minutes, once a day, and furnishes a safer and more valuable mode of physical training than the gymnasium. It is adapted alike to ladies and gentlemen; requiring no change of dress; does not fatigue nor exhaust, but by equalizing and improving the circulation of the blood, refreshes and invigorates; and, finally, is daily recommended by leading physicians to those suffering from want of tone and vigor, or from dyspepsia and other forms of indigestion; or from various diseases of the nervous system; or from the class of ailments caused by torpor or congestion of the liver. Personally, we find the daily habit of walking, splitting our own wood, and blacking our own boots, an amount of exercise sufficiently cumulative! But to all who ignore such privileges, we commend the lifting cure. That physicians approve it as a simple means of preventing diseases arising from sedentary habits is, probably, what Josh Billings would call, its "best holt."

JOHNSON, FRANCIS, M. D. Age, 42. Democrat. Regular Physician. Dr. Johnson was born near Augher, county Tyrone, Ireland, Aug. 16, 1835, and emigrated to this country in 1847; since which time he has resided in Rhode Island. In 1845 he went into business for himself, continuing in the same till 1870. He has served his townsmen as highway-surveyor, school committee, and selectman. He was never an office-seeker, and never declined his share of the public burden, when forced upon him; but, on the whole, we think he rather preferred to attend to his own affairs. KIMBALL, GEORGE A. Age, 50. Druggist and Pharmacist. If we were to take Shakspeare's masterly description of an apothecary shop, carry it to Mr. Kimball, and should say to him, as Claude Melnotte said in the "Lady of Lyons," to Pauline, "Dost thou like the picture?" we fancy he would turn away in disgust, and ask us to view his elegant surroundings of cut and plate glass, and marble; and possibly he would propound to us in reply, Claude's veritable question! At the age of twenty-one years he commenced business for himself on Main Street, Haverhill, Mass.,—a better place, in his opinion, than the city of Boston, where he was born, April 13, 1828, and brought up in the ancient Washington Street drug-house of Brewers, Stevens & Cushing. He subsequently removed to Merrimack Street, where he still continues in business, notwithstanding he has amassed a handsome property. The distinguishing features of his establishment, are promptness and accuracy,—two points of paramount importance in his special vocation. The financial success of the proprietor we attribute to his close and continued application to business, and to his directness of aim. P. O., Haverhill, Mass.

LAWRENCE FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY. This institution substantially dates from the beginning of the town of Lawrence, starting with the Franklin Library Association chartered in April, 1847, of which the late Capt. Charles H. Bigelow was the first president. Hon. Abbott Lawrence made that institution a donation of one thousand dollars, and other gentlemen donated books. In his will, Mr. Lawrence also further donated the sum of five thousand dollars. In 1853, a large number of shares were disposed of by sale, increasing the library to four thousand volumes. In 1867 it was offered to the city of Lawrence, Mass., as a free library, but was not at that time accepted. Four years later. Hon. Daniel A. White, of Salem, Mass., left a fund to the city for the support of free lectures and a free library; which led to the acceptance of the library by the city from the stockholders, who had then three thousand dollars in money in the treasury, with which the White fund was consolidated under a city ordinance establishing the free public library of the city of Lawrence. The agricultural library was shortly after added to it, and Wm. I. Fletcher elected in 1872 as its first librarian. The library was in 1872 established in Saunders Block; but its increased size and circulation in 1875 demanded its removal to larger apartments in Odd Fellows' Block, where the entire second floor of that elegant building is appropriated to its use. Mr. Fletcher retiring from the charge of the library in 1874, Mr. Frederic H. Hedge, Jr., was elected his successor. The library contains (May, 1878) seventeen thousand eight hundred and fourteen (17,814) volumes; and has the largest circulation of any library outside of Boston, loaning to its readers every year one hundred and fifty thousand volumes. MORSE, HON. ELIJAH A., of Canton is a gentleman widely known as the proprietor and founder of the Rising Sun Stove Polish. He represented his town in the legislature in the Centennial year 1876, and was the Prohibitory candidate for lieutenant-governor in 1877, and owing to his personal popularity, ran over 800 votes ahead of his ticket. We give, on next page, a superb cut, which will give our readers some idea of his manufactory at Canton. He is the son of Prof. and Rev. Abner Morse, a gentleman of culture and learning, descended from an ancient and honorable New England family, which first settled in Dedham in the person of Samuel Morse, in the year 1634. Mr. Morse received his education in various schools and academies, among them the Boylston school, Boston, of which Hon. Charles Kimball of Lowell, at the time, was principal. Mr. Morse's father, like most professional men, while rich in learning, was poor in this world's goods, and our readers will be interested to know that the present enormous business conducted by Mr. Morse was commenced by him during school vacations, by retailing from house to house, carrying his little stock in trade in a carpet bag hung upon his arm. The following statement, copied from the "Canton Journal" of a late date, will give our readers some idea of the consumption of, and present demand for, the Rising Sun Stove Polish: —

HON. ELIJAH A. MORSE.

"Owing to the prospect of an immediate advance in Western freights, Morse Bros. have just received orders for an unusually large amount of their celebrated 'Rising Sun Stove Polish.' The sale of this day loaded four cars, and weighed 57,500 lbs., nearly 29 tons. It consisted of 1,150 gross, and was contained in 2,270 cases. There were 165,000 single packages, and as they are four inches long, would reach (being placed in a line touching one another) nearly ten and one-half miles."

We made a trip to Canton on Thursday of last week, visiting, of course, the "Rising Sun Works," where we met Mr. Morse, who showed us around his place, enthusiastically explaining the method and details of his business. As was well written by the editor of the "Franklin Register":—

"His place, in almost every part, shows the character of his business —the making of stove polish; and 'Rising Sun Stove Polish,' is seen freely painted on numbers of his buildings. Even the great American flag, which is duly raised when the proprietor is at home, bears the same or a similar legend. His grounds are laid out with care and a view to business, but they are not wanting in beauty. In front of his residence are two statues, highly gilded, and of life size, emblematic of Spring and Autumn, — Spring with flowers, and Autumn with a sickle and sheaf of wheat. Upon the point of the roof of his main building is a life-size figure of Justice, holding the scales evenly poised. Every part of the place shows the spirit of the man who rules it, who has built up a mammoth business, and is on the road to fortune. He puts up and ships two tons of his polish every day, and it is sold in about every city and hamlet of the Union."

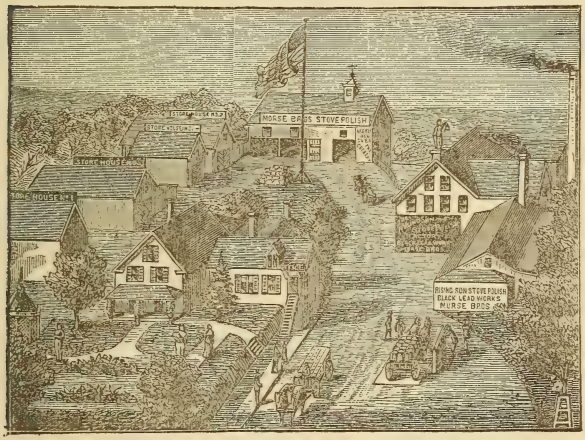
We notice that Mr. Morse is continually improving his premises, he having added to the ornaments of his grounds, the present summer, a beautiful fountain; he has also placed in position a watering-trough, the first and only one in town, at which "man's most faithful friend," the horse, may slake his thirst. Mr. Morse is replacing his present wooden buildings with more substantial ones of brick, his business warranting this change, as everything indicates that it will continue for many years as it is at present, — large, steady, and profitable.



RISING SUN STOVE POLISH FACTORY, CANTON, MASS.,
Established 1801.
ELIJAH A. MORSE, Proprietor.
(Name and style of firm unchanged.)

Mr. Morse is a most active, stirring, enthusiastic business man. In person he is of pleasing presence, and possesses a fine, open face.. We have been told that at one time, when the depression made everything in business lines stagnant, he paid his help one-half wages, although they had nothing to do in the shops, and this for several weeks. This speaks well for him — for his benevolence and justice. He also learned the location of the grave of Col. Gridley, the patriot who engineered the fortifications at Bunker Hill, and afterwards took part in the memorable battle, and, with others, induced the town to remove the remains to the cemetery, and had a handsome monument erected over them.— It always gives us great pleasure to speak in commendation of any person who has worked his way up from honest poverty to affluence or comfortable circumstances, and we are particularly inclined to do it in the present case, as the early portion of Mr. Morse's life was spent in our native town. Mr. Morse has lately taken an especial interest in the temperance work, and during the past few months has delivered several hundred temperance addresses in different parts of this and other States, as a majority of our readers doubtless know. In the words of the editor last quoted above:—

"He is one of the most pleasing temperance lecturers in the State, and he gives freely of his time and means in carrying on that great work. He is fearless and outspoken in his denunciation of evil in every form."

The subject of our sketch early turned his attention to the study of chemistry in connection with photography; and few of the fraternity, we are assured, have done more to improve and elevate the discovery of Daguerre than our artist-friend now under consideration. He has originated many processes adapted to different conditions; and these, together with his peculiar formulæ, he cheerfully submits to all who seek and desire them. His archæological researches in Peru, as developed by the camera, are pronounced perfect transcripts of those antique treasures. He is a fascinating lecturer, of great oratorical and persuasive power. His style is entirely unlike that of John B. Gough, yet the mantle and the magic charm of that silver-toned temperance orator, still in the field, seems to have somehow fallen on him; and in one respect they are by no means unlike—their audiences being limited only by the capacity of the halls that hold them. In 1873 he erected on the heights overlooking Lake Kenoza and his acres, a stone mansion of castellated form, of ancient style of architecture and imposing design, which he occupies as a summer residence. The grounds about it are laid out in fine style, and adjacent to it is a beautiful park, in which is a herd of deer, with several fountains, supplied with water lifted by steam from Lake Kenoza. His residence and the farm are annually visited by many people from near and remote sections of the country. Dr. Nichols is now fifty-nine years of age, and has yet important plans for the future, which will still cause his life to be a busy one in coming days, as there is evidence that it has been in those of the past.

He went as an apprentice to the watch, jewelry and optical business in Amherst in 1834, and commenced for himself in the same place in 1840. The necessity of some simple method of ascertaining exact time, which is found only by the movements of the sun and stars, led him to construct a transit instrument for that purpose, for which he received letters-patent, in 1868. His principal business at the present time is the manufacture of these instruments, at Leominster, Mass., for the use of watchmakers and others requiring exact time. It was the study of astronomy for the purpose of computing time, under the guidance of professors at Amherst College, that led to his appointment by Gov. Claflin as commissioner for establishing true meridian lines in each county of the State of Massachusetts, the object being to furnish a standard by which surveyors of land may know the variations of the needle (which is always changing) from a true north. Unquestionably these lines might prove of great value to the landholders of the coming generations, and save much litigation if the State would enforce its own law, in the matter of penalties for unfaithness on the part of surveyors. Mr. Prevear is at the present time State commissioner, etc. P. O., Leominster, Mass.

With some experience in teaching, he took charge of the winter school at Wolfborough, N. H., commenced preaching, and something of a revival followed his efforts. His parents being poor and unable to assist him, he continued to work his own way, as he had done before, and finally graduated from the New Hampshire Conference Seminary at Tilton, N. H., June 17, 1874. After acceptably supplying the M. E. Church at Auburn, N. H., during the summer, in September, 1874, he went to the School of Theology, Boston University, intending to take the regular triennial course, but, for wants of funds, and fearing embarrassment by debt, in 1875 he took recommendation from the Bromfield St. Quarterly Conference, Boston, joined the New Hampshire Conference on trial, and was stationed at Pittsburg, N. PRATT, CHARLES B. Age, 54. Independent in politics. Mayor of city of Worcester, Mass. His Honor, Mayor Pratt, was born in Lancaster, Worcester County, Mass., Feb. 14, 1824. His parents were very poor, and, at the age of nine, he was put out into the world to seek his own living and to take care of himself. He went to Fitchburg, Mass., and worked in a cotton-mill till 1836, when he started for the West, being then only twelve years old. He worked his passage a part of the way by driving horses on the canal, and finally arrived at Rochester, N. Y., where he remained two years, learning the iron-moulder's trade. Here it was that, by his own pluck and courage, and the circumstances surrounding him, he began in the road to fortune, which he afterwards reached; and here commenced his connection with the business of sub-marine diving, and all interests connected therewith. He has been many times employed by the U. S. government, and also in large contracts of sub-marine work. He has been president of the First National Fire Ins. Co. for a number of years, and is also a director of the First National Bank. PAYNE, H. W. Manufacturer and dealer in harnesses, &c. Mr. Payne is one of the most active and energetic business men of Springfield, Mass., and in no part of the city can be found a larger variety of useful and well-made goods, especially for horsemen, than at 471 Main Street. Everything useful in that special line of goods, can be found there,—from a surcingle to a feather duster; and why he failed to compete for variety with the shopkeepers of London and Paris at the great exposition of the present year, is a matter for conjecture. In attention to business, as well as in prices and in promptness, Mr. Payne is probably unsurpassed by any dealer in Springfield, Mass.

Upon Gov. Weston's re-election in 1874 and '75, Mr. Page was again appointed to the same office. He held the office of register of probate two years. In 1876 he became counsel for Alexander Manson, heir of John S. Manson, who died in California, possessed of considerable property. In prosecuting this case, it became necessary for him to make two trips to California, and reside some five months in that State. Though young in years, Gov. B. F. Prescott, attorney for the Dearborn heirs to the same estate, put so high an estimate upon young Mr. Page's ability and integrity, that he intrusted to him the interests of his clients; for whom and his own client he succeeded in obtaining the handsome sum of $117,000 in gold. In 1877 Mr. Page was elected to the legislature from Haverhill, and in 1878 was re-elected to the same office by a largely increased vote. RICH, REV. J. A. L. Age, 37. The Rev. Mr. Rich, the youngest of nine children,—seven sons and two daughters,—was born in Cooper, Me., Aug. 10, 1840. Compelled to remain at home and help his aged father on the farm, the fact that one brother only could go to college by no means checked his love for learning. When he went to the fields or woods he took with him a book, gathering therefrom much useful knowledge; and when, in vacation, his brother came home to the old farm, he recited to him what he had learned, thus continuing a course of study which was not available in the schools of the town. At the age of nineteen he began teaching, and at twenty-one he took charge of the high school in which the higher English branches and Latin were required to be taught. Here he studied medicine for a time with Dr. Bates, but finally abandoned the idea, married Miss Susie C. Smith, the daughter of a Unitarian clergyman, and settled down to teach, continuing eight years in this occupation, filling the offices of selectman, supervisor of schools, &c. During a revival interest, in which a large number of his scholars were converted, he became greatly interested; and being impressed with the duty of a higher mission, took the necessary steps and qualification for the work, and entered the ministry, in which he has since been successfully engaged. Mr. Rice is now a member of the E. Maine Conference and elder in the Methodist Episcopal Church, stationed at Dover, Me.

REFORM CLUB, GEO. C. COBURN, PRESIDENT, Littleton, N. H. This club now numbers over a thousand members, and much of its efficiency is due to Mr. Coburn, president of the club, who has done a great deal of good in establishing the prosperity and popularity of the reform movement in Littleton. Mr. Coburn enlisted as a private in Co. G, 2d N. H. Vols.; was detailed as division wagon-train master under Gen. Hooker, and held that position during three years of service; and when mustered out, he enlisted in the 1st N. H. Cavalry; was commissioned lieutenant, and held that office till the close of the war. The club was organized in January, 1876, and its first president was Josiah Kilburn. Its officers at the present time are, Geo. C. Coburn, president; J. A. Davis, secretary; and Josiah Kilburn, treasurer. Owing to the character, standing, and earnestness of the officers of this club, their fidelity to the interests of the order, and the wisdom displayed in the management of its affairs,—procuring lecturers, and avoiding the sectarian and political shoals that have wrecked so many institutions of this kind, the club has been a power for good, reclaiming hundreds of the fallen, and saving many more from a similar sad fate.

He was surgeon on the staff of Gen. Thomas, and assisted in organizing eighty negro regiments. He was in much active service, and received severe permanent injuries from a shell which paralysed one side and destroyed the sight of one eye. SHEFFIELD, HON. JOHN G. Age, 59. Born upon Block Island, April 26, 1819, the Hon. Mr. Sheffield, from the age of twenty-three to the present time, has occupied many positions of public trust and responsibility. During the rebellion, and up to the year 1873, he represented the island in the R. I. State legislature, and co-operated vigorously with Hon. Nicholas Ball, his fellow-townsman, in securing a government harbor for the island. Having held nearly all of the town offices, and with health somewhat impaired by a life of constant activity, for the past few years he has enjoyed the sweets of retirement at his beautiful home on one of the most sightly points of the island. According to Livermore's History of Block Island, Mr. Sheffield's residence was the ancient home of his grandfather, John Gorton, who, on account of his personal bearing, was called "Gov. Gorton," both by his townsmen and by the British soldiers of 1812, who, as a mark of respect, when they visited his house, stacked their arms at a considerable distance from his residence. In the construction of the breakwater of Block Island, Mr. Sheffield did a good work for the public and for his townsmen. His activity for the intellectual and moral improvement of the islanders has kept pace with his political and pecuniary enterprises. The only official position now held by Mr. Sheffield is that of inspector of customs of U. S. at New Shoreham, his place of residence; and, by act of Congress, he is allowed to hold no other office while thus engaged.

Although he learned the stonemason's trade and followed it for many years, he finally abandoned it to engage in the more genial and healthy employments of a farmer's life, in which he has continued to the present time. In 1849 he went to Hinsdale, N. H., and in 1856 and 1857 was superintendent of schools and town clerk, which latter office he held till 1859. In 1861 he was at Burlington engaged as clerk in the office of the Vermont Central Railroad. In this, and a similar capacity on board steamer "United States," on Lake Champlain, he continued till his removal to Keene in 1869, when he became local agent of Cheshire Railroad, acting as such for a period of six or seven years until 1876, when he received the appointment of postmaster,

SMITH, R. H. Manufacturer of rubber type. Mr. R. H. Smith is a leading member of the firm of R. H. Smith & Co., manufacturers of rubber printing-stamps and type. This branch of industry, which has so rapidly grown from an experimental to one of recognized necessity, owes much to the genius and enterprise of this firm,—Messrs. R. H. and H. M. Smith, both thorough practical mechanics of long experience. These gentlemen are constantly adding to their already large list of labor-saving devices for the use of the professional and business public. Their stamps may be found in nearly every town in the United States, and fully one-third of their work is exported to other countries. Their annual catalogue is the most complete guide published in this line of business, while their factory is the largest and oldest of its kind in New England. P. O., Springfield, Mass.

SOUTHWICK, PLINY B. Age, 54. Prohibitionist and Republican. Coal, grain, and flour dealer. Mr. Southwick is too radical to have been born any where in the United States except the State of Massachusetts, and he was born there in the town of Berlin Sept. 7, 1823. In fact he is radical in everything, neutral in nothing. During the anti-slavery controversy he was a Garrisonian abolitionist. He is a believer in a God of love, not of wrath, and in a religion that makes men better. For thirteen years he was a member of the Hopedale Community at Milford, Mass., founded by Adin Ballou and others. He has been a justice of the peace, a member of the school committee, and a delegate of the Worcester County lodge of Good Templars. Hence he believes in the equality of the sexes, and, of course, in woman's right to the ballot. He is a friend of the working-man, but not a believer in strikes; and he believes, moreover, in progress, here and hereafter, and that an honest man is the noblest work of God! He is, of course, republican in politics, — as scarcely any other party-politician succeeds in getting office in Massachusetts! and, in religion, is connected with the Orthodox Congregationalists. Residence, Methuen, Mass.

SHEARS, REV. ALONZO GROESBECK, M. A., M. D. Born in Washington, Dutchess County, N. Y., Feb. 3, 1811; (Horace Greeley's birthday also). Educated at Wesleyan University, he became M. A. at Trinity, Yale, and Columbia colleges, and M. D. of New York Medical College, all favorite institutions with him. He was ordained by Bishop Whittingham, in Trinity Church, New York city, March 4, 1849; founded the New Haven (Conn.) Suburban Home School, of which he was rector and proprietor seventeen years; visited Europe and the East; preached in Great Britain, Rome, Naples, Jaffa, Jerusalem, and elsewhere in his travels, his family accompanying him as far as Naples. He wrote a Memoir of his son for the "Early Dead;" a Sermon on Brotherly Love, (Toledo, O.,) Laus Deo, with music, (1867), Letters from Abroad; editor of New Haven Musical and Masonic Journal, and contributed to various periodicals, both prose and poetry. At the present time, and for several years past, he has had charge of a parish in New Haven, Conn. Like the noted editor and philosopher whose natal day and year were identical with his own, Dr. Shears has exhibited a self-denial, courage, and enterprise, that have not failed to bear lasting fruit of a most gratifying character, not to himself alone, but to multitudes both living and dead. For him to become educated, in the best sense of this common word, was to manifest this trio of traits of character, with a perseverance worthy of the best of causes. We saw a statement, a year or two since, that in early boyhood, he voluntarily sold his favorite skates to buy an English grammar and geography with the proceeds! Many of our school-boys have reversed this process! Dr. Shears used to say, with much satisfaction, he was able to buy for himself rockers on which to skate with his pupils of the Suburban. The periods of his horseback rides in summer, and of his sleigh-rides in winter, were devoted to the acquisition of the rudiments of a classical education. Full a third of a century he wholly ignored the use of tea, coffee, and tobacco, and it was only at the Netherlands that he began the moderate use of tea and coffee, where the guide-book said drink anything but water! He never used tobacco, except a single cigar! Unaided by other resources than his own labors and savings made available, time and progress were to Dr. Shears, of the deepest interest and value. Later in life, and when much study would be to many, to an excessive degree, "a weariness to the flesh," he found or saved time from professional and other duties, to give himself formally and with success, to the study of medicine, not so much as a profession as an art. In how many senses is it true, that what we sow, we shall reap. See "American Odd Fellow" for A. D. 1865, for Dr. Shears's portrait, p. 32, and his memoir, p. 57. He was state chaplain of the Order, fifteen years.

He is more widely known throughout the country for originating and disseminating, in a series of well written articles in the public press, the following maxim: The nation which has the most valuable dollar for a legal tender (other things being equal) will outrun in wealth and prosperity the nation whose dollar buys less, as sure as death follows existence. His articles on finance are widely copied by the public press of the country, and their soundness is endorsed by such leading financial thinkers and writers as Amasa Walker, David A. Wells, B. F. Nourse, and others.

Availing himself of the educational advantages of his time, he became early qualified for a teacher, and a portion of his early life was spent in that employment, teaching schools in West Newbury, East Haverhill, and in that neighborhood. One of his scholars, who has since become distinguished, was John G. Whittier, then a lad of eight years. This youth then began to attract attention; and, on a certain occasion, his teacher, Mr. Tewksbury, remarked of him that "if he lived to be thirty years of age, he would occupy a prominent position in the literary world!" This remark was based upon his knowledge of anatomy and physiology,—phrenology not then having become recognized as a suggestive science. Still aiming in the direction of the medical profession, Dr. Tewksbury attended anatomical lectures in Gloucester, Mass., and other places, in connection with his study of medical works. In 1817 he commenced the practice of his profession in Hampstead, N. H., where he remained for thirty years. On May 2, 1824, a diploma was conferred upon him by the faculty of Dartmouth College, signed by Reuben D. Muzzey, President; Josiah Crosby, Thomas Chadbourne, Censors; Peter Bartlett, secretary. In the same year he joined the New Hampshire Medical Society, and for several years held the offices of councillor and censor. In the second year of his practice he entirely discarded the use of mercury, and entered his protest against it as a deleterious medicine; in consequence of which he encountered fierce opposition from prominent and popular physicians, but he firmly faced their hostility, and established a high reputation as a medical practitioner. In 1847, thirty-one years ago, he removed to Lawrence, Mass., where he still resides, and in the 84th year of his age is now actively in practice, retaining all his faculties of body and mind to a remarkable degree; and at this advanced age illustrates the advantages of a temperate and well-ordered life, by the exhibition of a "sound mind in a sound body." The early companion of his days long since passed to her repose, whose place is now filled by another to share the joys and sorrows which attend his days' decline. A somewhat numerous family of children are living, some of whom are residents of New England, and others are in distant portions of the country. In his religious opinions he is evangelical, and in religious and political opinions conservative.

In addition to his regular pastoral work, Mr. Thomas was known in England as one of the most successful of lecturers. For seven years he lectured Monday evenings (during six months in the year) at his own church, to audiences numbering from 1,800 to 2,300 people. This exhausting labor made a complete change necessary. He came on a three months' holiday tour to the United States in the fall of 1874, and was induced to accept the pastorate of the Harvard Church, Brookline, where he has since labored. THOMAS, EDWIN RANDOLPH. Age, 61. Republican. Superintendent Cotton Mill. Mr. Thomas is a native of Rhode Island, and was born in Cumberland, Providence County, Jan. 8, 1817. The idea of a stanch republican being born on the 8th of January seemed at first incongruous, but since the story of General Jackson and his New Orleans cotton bags has been exploded, we see no sort of difficulty in the way. Having enjoyed the advantages of a good common-school education, Mr. Thomas afterwards removed to the town of Woonsocket, in the same State, and has been a resident of that place twenty-three years, during which period of time he has been the efficient superintendent of the Clinton Manufacturing Company's mill. In 1847 and '49 he represented his town in the state legislature, and was at that time one of the leading democrats in his section. Later events led him to change his political views, and for many years he has warmly supported the republican party. He has frequently served the town as moderator of town meetings, and for a succession of years has held the office of justice of the peace for the State. When the city of Lawrence was founded, it created a demand for bricks, which opened the clay-beds of Plaistow, for that use. VIETS, REV. A. P. Age, 58. Republican. Baptist Clergyman. The Rev. Apollos Phelps Viets, son of Deacon Daniel Viets and Beulah (Phelps) Viets, of Suffield, Conn., was born in Granby, Conn., Sept. 20, 1819. He numbers among his uncles and cousins on his father's side, the Rev. Roger Viets, Rt. Rev. Bishop Alexander Viets Griswold, and the Rev. Drs. Tyng of New York, Episcopalians; and on his mother's side, Rev. Dr. S. D. Phelps, etc. He was brought up on a farm; was several years a teacher in the Southern States, and at the North; has been pastor about eight years in Connecticut, being first settled in a part of his native town; then pastor for about twenty years in Hancock, Mass., ministering occasionally in adjacent towns, and during all this time serving as superintendent of public schools. Since 1870 Mr. Viets has spent several years in Kansas, doing mission work,—self-supported. Here he was first on the field, and organized a church. His publications are sermons, poems, school reports, and various miscellaneous articles. He is a believer in Christianity and the simplicity that was in Christ Jesus. He believes that the "gospel should be preached to the poor without money and without price," —a belief which he has always put in practice, "all for love and not reward." While not asking, he has always received a good support, as promised by the Master. He entertains a belief that pride is creeping into the pulpit and the pew; that there is too much extravagance in building and supporting gaudy church edifices; that the general display of dress is a waste of money; and that the call for contributions, which almost exclude the poor, shows a form of pomp rather than piety,—of glory rather than godliness, drifting world-wise and away from the mind that was in Christ Jesus. Being of an unobtrusive and retiring disposition, he has never pushed himself forward, and only comes to the front when called. Dr. Viets regards as the highest compliment of his life that once it was said of him, in a company of ministers, that "the three most modest ministers they knew in the denomination, were Dr. W——, of New York; Dr. P——, of New Haven; and Dr. Viets!"

VINCENT, JOSEPH J., D. M. D. Age, 38. Dentist. Dr. Vincent was born in Brockton, Mass., Dec. 17, 1839; though if he had not himself told us so, we should have thought him a native of North Bridgewater. We are quite sure he was well educated in the schools and academy of his native town, as he goes for honesty in politics, no matter what other fancy political name its owner may see fit to give it. During the war Dr. Vincent enlisted in the three months', and afterwards re-enlisted in the three years' call, for volunteers, and served during both entire terms of enlistment, the greater portion of the time being in the medical department. He is a graduate of Harvard Dental School, in the class of 1869. He ranked, at graduation, sixth in a class of thirty-five, and earned all the money spent for his education (except two dollars) by manual labor, teaching, and preaching, so that at graduation he left college free from debt! Joining the New England Conference, he was, in 1865, appointed pastor of the church in Medway, Mass. In 1866, transferred to the Vermont Conference, he was appointed professor of Latin and natural science at Newbury (Vt.) Seminary. H., in the year 1831, but removed to his present home in North Haverhill in 1872, and in March last was for the fifth time re-elected to the offices of town clerk and treasurer of Haverhill, by a vote so much in excess of his party's strength as to prove an unmistakable endorsement of his manner of conducting the town's affairs. It is barely possible that Mr. Weeks has a special gift for public office, as during his long previous residence in his native town he has held the various positions of moderator, selectman, town clerk, and county treasurer. After he becomes mayor of the city we shall look to see him fill the first congressional vacancy. P. O., Haverhill, Grafton County, N. H.

He has been in business from 1846, continuously to the present time. He belongs to the Masonic fraternity, and votes with the democrats, since the republicans, in his estimation, have got to be such rogues! He is an Episcopalian, and a vestryman of Trinity Church, Pawtucket, R. I.

Mr. Westgatt is one of the most energetic workers in the republican party, having been for eight years a member of the republican state central committee. He was chairman of the republican county convention, and though residing in a county and town strongly democratic, is untiring in his efforts to reduce their majority, and to poll the entire strength of his party. WEEKS, ALONZO. Age, 58. Democrat. Town Treasurer and Selectman, Littleton, N. H. Mr. Weeks was born in Danville, Vt., in the year 1819. He is by occupation a boot and shoe manufacturer and dealer; and from his first entrance upon public life has been honored by his fellow-townsmen with either the office of clerk, treasurer, or selectman. The good democrats of Littleton have their own ideas of civil service reform; and one plank in their platform is to keep a good man in office when they get him. Mr. Weeks was chosen town clerk in 1864. In 1870 he was made town treasurer; and we know he wears the cross-keys in his own Masonic lodge. He had already served on the board of selectmen, yet the people chose to re-elect him to that office, at the last annual town meeting. If he is ever saved from being sent to congress he will doubtless continue in the future, as in the past, a most efficient public officer.

H., in the class of 1866, and at once entered into practice in Northumberland, N. H., where he remained two years, and then removed to North Haverhill, N. H., where he has since acquired a practice of which any physician might feel proud. Should operative surgical skill of his future professional life ever surpass the present speculative handiwork of his Masonic career, he may yet live to become, like his father, one of the most distinguished practitioners in the State of New Hampshire.

He removed to Lowell, Mass., in 1851, and commenced teaching music; and so great was his success that the school committee of 1866 appointed him teacher of music in the public schools of Lowell, a position which he still holds.

He commenced the practice of medicine and surgery at Stewartstown, N. H., and continued it at Guildhall, Vt., where he practised twenty years. To secure greater educational advantages for his children, he afterwards became a resident for several years in Newbury, Vt.; and in 1867 removed to Littleton, N. H., where his temperate life, his kindly disposition, and acknowledged skill in the diagnosis of disease, has enabled him to build up an extensive and lucrative practice. During his long and useful life, Dr. Watson has held many offices of honorable trust. He has been a member of the state legislature, and on more than one occasion has served as state senator. He early embraced the religious views of the Friends, or Quakers, and lives their faith in his daily walk and life. Dr. Watson is the father of Dr. Henry P. The following year he began business for himself, and conducts it successfully to the present time. He has served a number of years on the school board, and is a director of the National Bank of Commerce. He is also owner of the Wilcox Building on Weybosset and Custom House streets. This five-storied building is one of the most costly and magnificent in the State of Rhode Island. It is built of brick, with granite and pressed trimmings. It has a splendid stairway constructed of variously colored marble reaching to the top story, with a very heavy and beautifully-polished black walnut balustrade. Its steam elevator, also, is of the latest improved pattern, and every part of the building is constructed to correspond. Its offices are occupied mainly by agents of insurance companies and of manufacturing interests, brokers, and real estate men, etc., etc.

Webber, one of the earliest mustard manufacturers in this country. His mother was a lineal descendant of the grandfather of Gen. Israel Putnam. Mr. Webber was educated in the public schools and at Torrey's (Beverly) Academy. He left the academy in 1861 to enlist for the war, and served three years in the 23d Mass. Regt. At the expiration of his service he was attacked with a combination of fevers, given up four times for dead, and reduced from one hundred and forty-two pounds to a mere walking skeleton of seventy-five pounds. He was with Chandler & Co., of Boston, and A. T. Stewart, New York, from 1865 to 1868, and studied for the stage under the English tragedian Boothloyde Fairclough in 1867; but while never adopting the stage as a profession, has appeared before the public as "Hawksley" in "Still Waters Run Deep," "Stephen Plum," in "All that Glitters is not Gold," "Petruchio," "Taming of the Shrew," "Lafont," in "Love's Sacrifice," "Gordon Vassal," in "Paul Revere," "Rupert Boyd," in "Secrets of the Service," and other characters. WOLCOTT, TRUMAN. Age, 70. Democrat. Building-mover. Mr. Wolcott was born in Hudson, Mass., July 14, 1807, and was in early life a carpenter and machinist. He built a number of churches and a large shoe factory; but is now engaged in moving buildings. He was a resident for forty-eight years of the town of Stow, Mass., where he held different town offices, and went to the legislature. He has lived thirteen years in Hudson, where he is assessor for the present year. He has taken out two patents, one for making shingles, and one for lasting shoes. It has always been stated, and by some credibly believed that, certain good democrats 'way down in Maine and remote parts of the Union, vote regularly every presidential year for Andrew Jackson. It is certain, however, that Truman Wolcott, like a true man and good democrat as he is, gave his first vote for the "hero of New Orleans" in 1828, and has neither missed a town meeting, nor changed his politics since! He has never been sick, and was always a temperance man, but not a prohibitionist. He held the office of postmaster under Postmaster-general Amos Kendall; but resigned in 1840. P. O., Hudson, Mass.

O., Salem, N. H.

H., where he remained till 1862, when he enlisted for the war, was commissioned first lieutenant, and was promoted soon after to quartermaster. He served on the staffs of Gens. Birge, Emery, Grover, and Phil. Sheridan, and was honorably discharged in 1865, when he returned to Keene, and practised law till 1875, and then went to California, and practised there, and was admitted to the supreme court of that State in Feb., 1876. WARREN, ALDEN. Age, 66. Republican. Blacksmith. We confess to a very great degree of respect for Mr. Alden Warren, who modestly calls himself a blacksmith, instead of following the fashion of the day, and claiming to be an "artist in iron," or a "forger of thunderbolts for the gods," as Vulcan did in the olden time. Mr. Warren has seen too much of the world to be guilty of such nonsense. He was born at Littleton, Mass., in the memorable year 1812, and has been for forty-nine years a residence of Groton, Mass., where his carriage manufactory is a feature of the town. He finds a place in this "Official Directory," because, for twenty-four years he has held the office of town treasurer of Groton, Mass.

Dr. White, now a resident practising physician of Springfield, Mass., is a native of South Carolina, and was born in that State Oct. 3, 1826. He graduated at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., Aug. 13, 1844; at Philadelphia College of Medicine, July 12, 1848; and at the University of Pennsylvania, April 8, 1851. He is a society member of Pennsylvania College of Physicians and Surgeons, and in 1850 and 1851 was a surgeon in the U. S. Navy. Residence, Howard Street, Springfield, Mass.

WEEKS, HON. NATHAN H. Age, 52. Democrat. Retired. Mr. Weeks was born in Guilford, N. H., March 9, 1826. He was reared on a farm, and at the age of twenty-one years removed to the town of Thornton in that State, where he was elected superintending school committee and selectman. He has repeatedly filled those offices, and has been elected and re-elected and sent to the legislature half a dozen times. Possibly to avoid office, in 1864 he went to Woodstock, where his abilities were at once recognized, and he was made selectman in 1865–66, and the townsfolk of the shrewder sort sent him as their representative to the legislature in 1865, '66, '67, and '68; and merely to maintain the succession of years they gave him a seat in the governor's council in 1869–70, and in 1871–72 sent him again to the legislature. This was a little too much! and in the the latter year he removed to Plymouth, Grafton County, where he now resides. But here the good people soon found him out, and in 1874 they made him high sheriff of Grafton County, and he held the office till a change of administration, after two years, brought about a change in county officers. Yet he was better than the politicians of his time; for, while in office as a democratic high sheriff, he retained in his original position Captain George Farr, a republican deputy, against the usual practice in such cases. In 1876 Mr. Weeks was elected a member of the constitutional convention, which made many important amendments. It present he is not in active business. He is the owner of two farms and has one-fourth interest in a large paper-mill situated in Bristol, N. H. He possesses great business tact; and we may say of him,—what can be said of few politicians,—his long public record is unsullied by a single blot.

WENTWORTH, GEORGE A., A. M. Age, 43. Professor of Mathematics in Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H. Prof. Wentworth was born in Wakefield, N. H., July 31, 1835, receiving his preparatory education at Phillips Academy, and graduating at Harvard College in the class of 1858; entering as sophomore in 1855. He was immediately elected assistant teacher of Greek in Exeter Academy, and in 1859 received the appointment of professor of mathematics in that institution, which position he now holds. He is the author of "Wentworth's Elements of Geometry" for the use of schools, published in 1858.

WILSON, EZRA A. D. Age, 35. Paper-maker. Mr. Wilson is a native of Connecticut, and was born in the town of Manchester in the year 1843. At the age of seven years he removed with his parents to South Lee, Mass., and at the age of eighteen enlisted in the Union army as a member of the 49th Massachusetts regiment. After serving the full term for which he had enlisted he received an honorable discharge, returned to South Lee, remained there one year, then went to Connecticut, and afterwards to Knoxville, Tenn. Two years of life in the South, however, was sufficient, and his next move was for Massachusetts, where he accepted the nomination of city clerk for the first city government of Holyoke in that State. He has been active in the temperance reform movement, and was the first president of the Holyoke Reform Club, and was re-elected to that office in December, 1877. P. O., Holyoke, Mass.

WOOLSON, AUGUSTUS A. Age, 43. Republican. Mr. Woolson is a native of Lisbon, N. H., and was born June 15, 1835. His father was Amos Woolson, son of Elijah Woolson, who was one of the first settlers of that town. The Hon. Sheron Woolson, a brother of Augustus, was formerly mayor of Mount Pleasant, Ia., and a member of the state senate; and a cousin, John S. Woolson, engaged in the United States naval service during the late war, was on board the "Housatonic" when she was blown up in Charleston Harbor, and is now a leading lawyer of Iowa, having declined an election to congress! The West suits some, and young men go there on good authority. But its forced, rapidly-growing life had few charms for Augustus, as he viewed it after two years' experience. He had finished his educational studies at Newbury and at Meriden, and "went West" to seek his fortune. But he was glad to get back to Grafton County and to his home in Lisbon, where he has since resided. There he has been the leading justice of the peace and notary-public in the county, and most cases in adjoining towns have been brought before him as trial justice. He has been deputy United States marshal, and was for eight years assistant United States assessor of internal revenue, and for twelve consecutive years moderator of the town meetings. He has been town clerk, a member of the republican state central committee for years, and is at present chairman of the county committee. He was elected to the legislature, and served in the sessions of 1875, '76, and '77; and at the last election, although the town went democratic, his faithfulness to the interests of his constituents was recognized and endorsed by re-electing him to the same office. Mr. Woolson is an active politician, but a man of the highest and strongest sense of honor; and, at the last session of the legislature, was elected speaker of the house.

WEEKS, HON. JOSEPH D. Age, 39. Democrat. Lawyer. The Hon. Joseph D. Weeks, son of William P. Weeks, Esq., a distinguished attorney of New Hampshire, was born in the town of Canaan in that State in the year 1839. He was a student at Kimball Union, South Berwick, and Canaan Union academies, entered Dartmouth College in 1857 and graduated therefrom in 1861. He studied law with Samuel Wheeler of Dover, N. H., and with Weeks & Blodgett of Canaan, N. H.; entered Harvard Law School; was admitted to the Suffolk County (Mass.) bar in 1865, and to the New Hampshire bar in the same year. He has been superintending school committee of his native town; was elected a representative to the legislature in 1869, and was re-elected to the same office in 1860. In 1875 he was state senator, and was re-elected in 1878. He is an able, prosperous, and successful lawyer. P. O. Canaan, N. H.

WINKLEY, REV. J. WINGATE. Age, 35. Clergyman. The Rev. Mr. Winkley is a native of New Hampshire. He attended school at Portsmouth in that State, and spent ten years in mathematical instrument making in Boston, Mass. He was in Kansas in 1856–57, fighting with John Brown the battle of freedom, and graduated at Harvard Divinity School in 1868. He spent 1869-70 in Europe, in study, and took charge of the First Congregational (Unitarian) Society in Castine, Me., in October, 1873, remaining there two years. Sence then he has been settled at Littleton, Mass., over the Unitarian Church of that place. His lectures on "John Brown," "London," "Europe," "America's Three Most Remarkable Mechanicians," and "The Labor Question" are productions of much merit, and have been well received on the platform and in the lyceum. P. O., Barre, Mass.

WILLIAMSON, HON. HENRY. Age,

60. Republican. Farmer. Stock-farm of five hundred acres, on the Sandy River. The Hon. Judge Williamson was born in the town of Stark, county of Somerset, and State of Maine, July 13, 1817. His parents were Rev. Stephen Williamson and Betsey Williamson, and Henry was the oldest of eleven children. During his minority his advantages for education were limited; and after becoming of age, at his own cost, he fitted for and entered Hamilton College, N. Y., and graduated in the class of 1847. After leaving college he taught two years in the city of Rochester, N. Y., and in the village of Fairport in that State, and then returned to Maine, and to his native town, where he has since resided. He has held town office most of the time for the last twenty-five years, on the school board, or as chairman of selectmen. He was representative in 1857; and in 1859 and 1860 was a member of the Maine senate, and chairman of the committee on education. He was appointed by Gov. Coburn, in 1863, one of the commissioners to locate two normal schools, one in the eastern and one in the western part of the State; the locations being made at Farmington, and at Castine. In 1875 he was elected a member of the executive council from the 4th district, under Gov. Dingley's administration. In 1876 he was elected judge of probate for Somerset County, for four years, which office he now holds, the salary of said office being $250, paid quarterly by the county treasurer. Judge Williamson is a trustee of Bates College, and of Maine Central Institute; and is president of Stark Reform Club. P. O., Stark, Somerset County, Me.

Young, John D., M. D. Age, 37. Physician. Dr. Young was born in Corinna, Penobscot County, Me., Oct. 12, 1840. He received a thorough academic education; and, early developing a taste for the profession of medicine, the completion of his education was directed to a preparation for that calling. After pursuing a complete course of study, much of it under the care and instruction of the ablest professors, he graduated from Penn University, Philadelphia, in the class of 1864-5. He remained in Boston a considerable period, perfecting himself in the various branches of his profession, and in February, 1865, established himself in Lawrence, Mass., where he is now in constant practice. He is a member of the board of censors of the State Eclectic Society.

Yeaton, Philip. Age, 55. Republican. Landlord. Mr. Yeaton was born in the town of Belgrade, Me., Nov. 19, 1822. In early life he had much experience in taking charge of the insane, and was two years at the asylum in Augusta, Me., two years at the McLean Asylum, Somerville, Mass., and one year supervisor at the Butler Asylum, in Providence, R. I. He was afterwards engaged as a railroad contractor in Maine. In 1858 he became a citizen of Lawrence, Mass., and was one of the mechanics employed in building the Pacific Mills. Subsequently he became landlord of the Pacific House on Broadway, and of five boarding-houses of the Pacific corporation. In 1864 he assumed proprietorship of the Ocean House, at Hampton Beach, one of the prominent houses established for summer resort, on the Atlantic coast, containing, with the cottages attached, one hundred and twenty-five rooms.

Yeaw, Albin. Age, 50. Republican. Deputy Sheriff, Lawrence, Mass. Sheriff Yeaw was born in Scituate, R. I., Oct. 8, 1827. He received his education in the public schools, and has been, at different times, engaged in various branches of business, as merchant, manufacturer, and artist. He received the appointment of deputy sheriff in 1875; and in 1876 and '77 was a member of the common council. He has resided in Lawrence twenty-four years, and has an office at No. 3 Appleton Street.
